- These various groups contain ideologies that range from extremely tolerant to radical, to ultra militant.
- It is the policy of the Army that participation in extremist activities or organizations is inconsistent with the responsibilities of military services.

Introduction

- As leaders, we must be aware there may always be some individuals who still adhere and believe in racial or ethnic superiority or inferiority.
- By learning more about the ideologies, history and dynamics of supremacist extremist groups, you will have a better understanding of the influences that can affect your soldiers, how their beliefs or actions can affect those of their peers.
- Understanding these issues will prepare you to better handle the problems you may find facing you.

Army's Policy On Extremist Organizations

- Impact on the Unit and the Mission
- Policy
- Prohibitions

Impact on the Unit and the Mission

- When individuals in the armed services are supportive of an extremist organization there is an immediate impact on the unit.
- Even as the mission continues and work is accomplished, the overall command climate changes as it adjusts to the new element.
- In a lot of instances, even individuals who oppose or disagree will not confront the extreme views of another.
- They either do not feel directly affected by it or they may fear they may damage the unit's working environment.

Impact on the Unit and the Mission

- Command climate suffers
- Polarization of groups
- Undermines confidence among unit members
- Productivity is hampered and mission accomplishment can be seriously affected.
- Unnecessary efforts are required to recover from a neglected situation and time is lost.

Policy

- It is the policy of the U.S. Army to provide equal opportunity and treatment for all soldiers without regard to race, color, religion, gender, or national origin.
- Based on this philosophy, participation in extremist organizations or activities is inconsistent with the responsibilities of military service.
- Military personnel must reject participation in extremist organizations and activities.

Policy

- Extremist organizations and activities are one that advocate racial, gender, or ethnic hatred or intolerance

- Advocate or seek to overthrow the Government of the United States, or any States by unlawful means.

Prohibitions

- Soldiers are prohibited from the following actions in support of Extremist organizations or activities.
- Penalties for violations of these prohibition include the full range of statutory and regulatory sanctions, both criminal (UCMJ) and administrative.
- Participating in a public demonstration or rally
- Attending a meeting or activity with knowledge that the meeting or activity involves an extremist cause when on duty, when in uniform, when in a foreign country

- Recognizable hate symbols and paraphernalia are usually hidden until a recruit is hooked on the validity of the ideology.
- Some groups raise young adults in their ideology and then they enter the military to gain expertise and knowledge

Extremist Groups and Organizations

The majority of extremist groups and organizations have one predominant theme of superiority of one race over the other

- Identity (Creationism)
- White Supremacy Ideology
- Patriotism-Survival Ideology

Identity (Creationism)

- Racial Survivalist.
- Posse Comitatus.
- Populist.
- Militias.

Militias

- New groups form and others disappear so frequently it is difficult, if not impossible, to track which groups are active at any given moment.
- The character of these groups also may change rapidly as different factions, some extreme with neo-Nazi ties and other moderates, with law abiding goals vie for control.
- In some cases, there are support groups that do not engage in military training or typically have rank structures, but instead provide information and materials to militias.

Tattoos

Tattoos are frequently associated with racist and/or gang activities.

- Skinheads frequently use tattoos and symbols of lightning bolts, skulls, Nazi swastikas, eagles, and Nordic warriors.
- Skinhead graphics also feature barbed wire, hobnailed boots, and hammers in their symbolism.

Tattoos

- This information being provided is general in nature and is provided as a guide only to assist EORs, EOAs, leaders, and commanders.
- No immediate assumptions should be made when strange or suspicious tattoos are observed.
- However, they may be considered a warning signal something might be worth checking into further.
- When in doubt, consult the Staff Judge Advocate for clarification and guidance.
